Fisher is associated with Charles Van Dorn and Walter Spence in the Moffat County Potato association. They raised last year more than a million pounds of potatoes on forty acres of ground. It is claimed these potatoes, the Harvest Burbank and the Peach Blush, are very superior and bring more money on the market than the Greeley potatoes.

BOARD GOING SOUTH

Plans for Adding the Setters of the Rio Virgin, County.

The state land commissioners will leave Salt Lake City, November 17th, for Washington county to investigate the feasibility of driving an experimental well on the plateau above the Rio Virgin river between Hurricane and Kanab Springs. If the board members find it advisable to drive a well in this locality, a site will be selected. The land in the vicinity is the most part privately owned enlarged homesteads and the residents are asking for water for culinary purposes.

The settlers along the Rio Virgin have had much trouble from the ever changing channel of the stream and many of their homes have been damaged if not washed away. This caused the settlers to move to the higher regions, but they are short of good water for culinary use, and asked the state for aid.

There are between seventeen thousand and eighteen thousand acres of land under dry farming operations in the district, and it is reported that remarkably good crops of hay and vegetables are being raised.

New Canals Built.

He has also been making a preliminary survey of the North Creek irrigation system in Bear River county.

THING OF THE PAST

Jewish Colony Affairs Below Wound Up For Good.

The end of the Hebrew colony at Clarion in Sanpete county was formally recorded last Friday when the state land board decided to take back the six thousand acres of land sold the colony. The reason given by the board for its action is that the state has faithfully carried out its contracts while the Jewish colony has failed in its promises. The initial payment of six thousand dollars made to the state on the trust is declared forfeited, and the six thousand acres with water rights revert to the state.

The land will be re-appraised and offered for public sale. Improvements, which cannot be disposed of, will be appraised and credits accorded toward cost to the receiver of the colony. The colony was indebted to the state to the extent of seventy thousand and dollars. Improvements, aggregating a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, have been made to the colony.

About eight-eight hundred of the six thousand acres of land has been brought under cultivation.

NEED MORE SHIPS

Lumbermen of the Country At Present Are Handicapped.

An American merchant marine is in need of the lumber industry in the southern part of the United States, according to Frank Fox of Little Rock, Ark., a hardwood lumber merchant who addressed the regular meeting of the Salt Lake Lumbermen's club there last Friday.

Fox says the hardwood industry in the South is crippled because of inability to secure ships in which to transport lumber already sold to the intelligent nations of Europe. He urged that lumber merchants use their influence on senators and congressmen to secure the establishment of an American merchant marine.

J. C. Webster, prominently identified with the lumber business in Idaho and Utah and well known at Price, attended the meeting and talked of conditions throughout the West.

ALKALI IN UNTAH

United States Expert Leaves to Investigate Complaints.

H. A. Hart, senior drainage engineer of the Salt Lake City office of the Bureau of Drainage investigation, United States department of agriculture, left Zion last Saturday for the Uintah Basin to investigate complaints from that district that alkali has appeared in the soil.

From what information I have received, it is my understanding that the situation is not yet serious," said Hart. "By taking early action we may be able to check the rise of the alkali before any considerable area of land is ruined. Alkali rises on land when it is irrigated without proper drainage facilities being provided.

The Uintah district is a comparatively new country, but irrigation has been practiced to some extent there for a number of years, and I am not surprised that the alkali should appear in spots."

STATE DEPARTMENT TO AID IN PLANTING FISH

"In any locality where the farmers will screen their irrigation canals this department will do the rest, and I guarantee that within a year they will have in their immediate vicinity all the fish they want to catch," said F. T. Chambers, state fish and game commissioner last Friday, while discussing the question of screens.

"Farmers are beginning to see that it pays to put in the screens," said Chambers, "and I think there is no question but what a law will be passed at the next session of the legislature requiring their installation. Putting them in will mean money in the pockets of the farmers."

"Take for instance a canal serving sixty farmers. Putting in a screen would cost them only about one dollar each. Within a year they would have enough fish in the stream close to the screen to form an appreciable item as a food supply and make a big hole in the high cost of living."

GOES TO THE COURTS

Denver's Prohibition Troubles Soon To Be Concluded.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 8.—The case to determine whether the state has the right to enact and enforce statewide prohibition legislation was filed before the state supreme court yesterday with the filing of a reply brief by Fred Farrar, attorney general. A decision is looked for in December and is expected to form a basis for the enforcement of statewide prohibition in Colorado, which becomes effective January 1, 1916.

The supreme court took original jurisdiction in the proceedings at the request of Governor Carlson and Attorney General Farrar, the Denver City authorities agreeing thereto. The case involved issuance by city authorities of a saloon license extending beyond January 1, 1916, to August Koch.

The state claims that under the constitutional amendment and legislative enactment the manufacture, importation or sale of liquor in Colorado after January 1st is illegal, and that the state possesses authority to enforce these enactments.

The city argues that it is operating under a special charter granted by the legislature and that this charter gives to the city the right to control the manufacture, sale or giving away of intoxicating liquors.

SHOWS HIS GENEROSITY

Major Myton Believes Woman A Zion Who Was In Distress.

When the wife of a prisoner at the city jail at Salt Lake City called there last Friday night to see her husband, who is charged with trying to pass a worthless check, she told the janitor that she had had nothing to eat since early morning. She said she had no money with which to buy food. H. P. Myton, in jail for killing Roy J. Hobson, overheard the unfortunate woman. He quickly reached into his pocket and picked out all his loose change.

"Here take this," said he, handing the wretched woman all the money he had. After expressing her appreciation she left to appear her hunger. William O. Stanford of Los Angeles, the woman's husband, has been unable to explain his ownership of an automobile, which he wanted to sell at half price, and was taken into custody by a detective. Also the prisoner once held on a charge of trying to pass a bad check upon a local auto repair shop.
